Lewis Answers FDR Strike Plea Today

53,000 IDLE IN 'CAPTIVE MINE' DISPUTE

Defy President's Request To Stay on Jobs In Interest of National Defense.

DEMAND UNION SHOP

Labor Leader Scheduled To Give Reply To Roosevelt's Request Today.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The United Mine Workers claimed today that practically all of the 53,000 coal miners in captive mines of the nation remained idle in answer to a strike order of President John L. Lewis despite a second appeal by President Roosevelt that the miners stick to their jobs.

K. G. Adams, press official of the UMW, said Lewis would reply this afternoon to Mr. Roosevelt's second request that the mines continue in operation in the interest of national defense.

Adams said all captive mines were shut down, and that a "stack" of telegrams from local unions endorsed Lewis' rejection of the president's first request that miners remain at work pending further negotiations.

The UMW claimed it had about 95 per cent of the miners in the captive mines organized, with nearly 100 per cent strength in some mines. Captive mines are so-called because they are owned by steel and other corporations which use practically all their output.

Principal issue at stake was the union demand for a union shop, under which all miners must become union members after serving a probationary period of employment.

UMW officials at Pittsburgh said 5,000 miners at the Jones and Laughlin and Allegheny Ludlum mines, which have already granted the union shop, were at work, but that 25,000 others were idle.

In southern West Virginia mines 11,000 to 12,000 miners were idle, while in the northern part of the state 1,800 were idle.

At Lynch, Ky., there were 4,300 miners out at the U. S. Coal and Coke company, a subsidiary of Who's Going To Stage Halloween Celebration Here?

Wanted: A Halloween celebration for Mansfield.

That's the notice that went out today as the city found itself without plans for a celebration with Halloween only five nights away.

Unless some organization or individual begins planning a program soon, the city will miss its Halloween parade and carnival for the first time in years.

The American Legion, which sponsored last year's party, has announced it will not undertake the task again this year because of the expense it involves.

The late Fred Hunt started the city's long series of Halloween carnivals a number of years ago and kept them going until his death four years ago. Since then, organizations or groups have sponsored the events.

Even if there is no public celebration, the city will not be entirely without its Halloween fun. At least one theater will have a late "spook show" Friday night and a number of social groups and individuals are planning parties and dances.

Since it requires considerable time to plan a city-wide celebration, including the customary parade of masked adults and children and comic floats, the outlook for a carnival was dark today.

31 Dead In Tornadoes, Bus Crash

Bus Crash In South Claims Lives of 15

7 Others Badly Burned When Fuel Tank Explodes.

(By Associated Press)

CLANTON, Ala. — A gasoline explosion which sent flaming spray over a crowded Montgomery-Birmingham passenger bus was blamed today for the deaths or at least 15 persons, most of them burned beyond recognition.

Seven others are in a Clanton hospital, two with critical burns. Parrish Aultman, Birmingham, the driver, died of his burns early today.

Coroner J. Mell Martin said three other dead have been tentatively identified as William D. Davis, Troy; Alonzo Renfroe, Banks, and Alton B. Yates, Union Springs. All were youths from South Alabama en route to a civilian conservation corps camp here.

The bus struck the concrete railing of a bridge four miles south of here last night. Almost instantly it was a mass of flames.

Hardie Jones, carpenter, who lives 100 yards from the scene, ran out to see Aultman, the driver, tumble from the bus, dragging a man by the arm.

"The driver went back into the bus," Jones said, "and came out with some more people. His clothing was on fire, and he ran to the roadside. We cut his clothes off and sent him to the hospital.

Mac Stephens, another witness, quoted Aultman as saying the bus caught fire just before it struck the bridge railing, although the explosion came after the crash.

C. V. Courson, Montgomery manager for Southeastern Greyhound Lines, said 27 to 30 persons were on the bus.

SNAG SEARCH

Weather Hampers Hunt For Missing Army Fliers.

FRESNO, Calif.—(AP)—Winter weather, interfering with aerial search, today virtually ended hope that the pilots of three army planes lost in the Sierra-Tehachapi mountain area would be found alive.

Eight planes failed yesterday to find any track of the three P-40 pursuit ships or of a fourth from which Lieut. J. H. Pease parachuted safely.

The missing fliers are Lieuts. L. C. Lydon, J. C. West and R. N. Long. Lieut. W. H. Birrell of Warren, Ohio, was found dead in the burned wreckage of his plane on Gray's peak Saturday.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.— (AP) — The man in the automobile slammed on his brakes and with a shock realized the tremulous call for "help, help" was directly in front of his car. Several persons on the curb paused and looked.

There before them, stalking majestically across the street, was Miss Madeline Crow's pit parrot.

Close-Up Of Army Bomber Over Mansfield

—News-Journal Photos.

Thousands of Mansfielders who visited the Municipal airport yesterday got a close up view of one of the U. S. Army Air Corps light bombers, and thousands of others saw the huge twin-motored Douglass as it roared over the city during the afternoon. Shown above is a photograph of the speedy craft taken from a plane flown by James R. Harrington, port manager, as it was flown high above the city. The fighter was piloted by Lieut. William C. Odell (inset) of the 15th Bombardment squadron, Lawson field, Ga., who flew here to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Odell, 246 Westbrook avenue. He was scheduled to return to his home port today. On the flight yesterday he took with him Major J. L. Zimmerman of the Air Corps. The giant ship has a top speed of over 300 miles an hour. The landing speed is approximately 100 miles an hour.

WHEAT WEEVILS FORM PROBLEM

Richland Farmers Can't Get Fumigant To Kill Pest Due To Defense Program.

Taking advantage of the defense priorities, wheat weevils are moving into Richland county grain bins to give county farmers their first major problem under the national defense program.

Thousands of bushels of wheat have already been damaged by the insects and much of the county's crop is threatened because farmers are unable to obtain carbon bisulfide in sufficient quantities to combat the pests, Mansfield grain dealers said today.

REPORT GERMAN AIR ACE DEAD

Nazis Say Col. Von Werra Fatally Injured In Air Crash.

BERLIN—(INS)—Col. Franz von Werra, one of the Luftwaffe's top flying aces, was reported today to have been injured fatally in an air crash. No details were revealed.

Baron von Werra made international news last January when he escaped from a Canadian internment camp and made his way across the St. Lawrence river to Ogdensburg, N. Y., where he was arrested.

Later released on bail pending trial, von Werra fled the United States. He was variously reported in South America and back in Germany.

Mercury Plunges To New Low; Another Drop Forecast.

Mansfielders stoked their furnaces a little harder and brought out their winter clothing over the week-end as the temperature dropped to 28 degrees, lowest of the season, early Sunday. The previous low was 31.

The mercury climbed rapidly last night to a high of 60 at noon today, but the weatherman said light rains this afternoon and tonight will be followed by a sharp drop in temperatures Tuesday. It will be mostly cloudy Tuesday with strong northwest winds Tuesday, the forecast said.

Despite the low reading Sunday, the average for the past two days was 48.7 degrees, slightly above normal. The low this morning was 51.

BULLETIN

OWENSBORO, Ky. — (AP) — An undetermined number of miners were reported trapped in the working of the Sterling Coal company at Daniel Boone, a small mining town, 11 miles south of Madisonville.

Rescue workers were unable to enter the mine due to gas fumes.

Moss Patterson, chief inspector of the State Department of Mines, reported at Lexington that he had received information that 30 to 75 men were in the mine when the explosion occurred, but that approximately 50 were near the air shaft and that these, at least, escaped injury.

Patterson planned to leave immediately for the scene.

STARTS DEBATE ON SHIP ARMING

Senate Tackles Measure That Would Permit U. S. Vessels To Enter War Zones.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON— (U.P.) —Senate leaders advised President Roosevelt today that they expected to pass the pending neutrality act revision legislation in "10 days or two weeks."

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate convened today to start debate on history-making legislation which would restore complete freedom of the seas to American merchantmen, and White House lieutenants called for final action within two weeks.

The bill, broadening the house-approved ship arming measure, would permit American vessels to sail into now-forbidden belligerent ports and combat zones. It was approved 13 to 10 by the foreign relations committee Saturday.

Senator Nye (R.-N. D.), an opponent of administration foreign policy, said that the committee action was "a blow below the belt to the American people who demand that the senate give full consideration to the measure."

Although Nye's remark seemed to hint at prolonged debate, Chairman Connally (D. Tex.) of the foreign relations group held this view:

"I do not believe it will take more than two weeks to pass the bill through the senate. Although there have been mumblings about a filibuster, this is not the kind of a situation in which anybody would conduct a filibuster.

"This is a time of emergency, and I don't believe the country will stand for any filibustering tactics."

Connally remarked several opponents of administration foreign policy had assured him they had no intention of seeking to delay action on the pending measure.

Administration authorities said they had 52 certain votes for the bill and predicted that before the final vote the total would reach 60, or a majority of almost 2 to 1.

16 KILLED AS TWO TWISTERS HIT ARKANSAS

Storm Leaves Untold Damage In Wake; Telephone, Power Service Disrupted.

MONTICELLO, Ark.—Sixteen persons were known to be dead today in the wake of two tornadoes which struck widely separated Arkansas towns last night within a few hours of each other.

Most severe of the two twisters devastated the heart of Hamburg, 25 miles south of Monticello, about midnight. Ten deaths were counted in the town, and authorities said it was "probable" additional victims would be found.

A few hours earlier, a tornado cut a path 100 yards wide through Dardanelle, about 125 miles northwest of Hamburg, and then leaped the Arkansas river to wreak its havoc on the communities of North Dardanelle and Bethel. This storm took six lives.

Scores of persons were injured, some seriously, in the Hamburg tornado. The injured were taken to hospitals in several small communities in the vicinity and no accurate count either of the deaths or injuries was immediately possible.

A number of homes in both the tornado-struck districts were destroyed. Damage was reported to be extensive in Hamburg. But in the Dardanelle area authorities reported damage had been limited by the narrow path of the whirlwind.

Destruction of telephone and telegraph communications to Hamburg made it difficult for surrounding towns to obtain information as to the extent of the havoc. Light and power service also was disrupted.

RUMOR SPIKED

Second Mansfield - Massillon Game Denied By Rohleder.

Rumors that a return game between Mansfield and Massillon high school football teams was being arranged for the Akron Rubber Bowl as a post-season attraction were denied today by Principal Glen G. Rohleder, of Senior High school.

"There has been no offer, and no talk between the two schools about such a game," Rohleder declared, "and I doubt if the Ohio High school Athletic association would permit us to play a post-season game. There's just nothing to the story."

Last week Akron Rubber Bowl officials offered Warren and Massillon a post-season date regardless of the outcome of their game at Warren next Friday night, but the offer was not accepted.

MOTORIST HAS DOUBLE TROUBLE

Columbus Man Believer In Adage 'It Never Rains But It Pours.'

COLUMBUS — (INS) — The old adage, "it never rains but what it pours," found a firm believer today in Harry Devaughn, 54.

Devaughn was crossing a street to reach his parked automobile when a motorist ran him down. He went to a hospital for treatment of minor injuries, and as he was departing police told him to brace himself for another shock.

While he was in the hospital, Devaughn's car had been struck and damaged by another machine.

Patrol Brush In Siberia Adds to Tension In East

Wintry Weather Slows German Advance On Moscow; Reds Admit Retreat But Deny Nazi Break-Through In Battle For Capital.

(By Associated Press)

With Adolf Hitler's armies pounding at the gates of Moscow and Rostov in the west, Russia announced today a small Japanese patrol had attacked a guard post on her Far Eastern frontier.

This clash, like many in the past, may have been merely an isolated incident, but against the background of Japanese troop concentration in Manchukuo and the growing question of Japan's intentions as a pact partner of Germany it bulked larger in its implications.

Only yesterday the new soldier-premier of Japan, General Hideki Tojo, pleading for internal solidarity for Japan to meet her destiny, declared for an "ever-expanding progression" for the empire—a course in which "no international pressure can disturb me."

"There is no retreat!" Tojo told his audience of public officials at Osaka.

The Russian-Japanese frontier skirmish occured last Thursday, according to Tass, official Russian news agency, whose dispatch from Vladivostok said 20 Japanese soldiers attacked frontier guards near the village of Raskino.

Tass said that there were some wounded on each side and that the Japanese abandoned some of their arms and ammunition on Soviet soil.

Russia's immediate, vital concern, however, still was the German drive on Moscow on the central front and Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus, in the south. The harried Red army was reported to have yielded ground, but strong defenses still barred the Germans from their twin goals.

A new press estimate from Kuibyshev, seat of part of the Russian government on the Volga, put German dead and wounded at 3,500,000 men, apart from a huge toll in armament. The Moscow radio reported that the Red air force had destroyed 500 German planes on the ground alone in the week of Oct. 11-18.

"The enemy still is powerful but does not have the possibilities for considerable reinforcements while we have every possibility to increase our forces and means of waging war," said the Kuibyshev newspaper, Volga Commune.

Both the Germans and Russians agreed that Nazi vanguards had forced closer to Moscow but the

TRAFFIC TAKES LIVES OF 15

One Killed, Another Seriously Hurt In Mansfield Area In Week-End Accidents.

One person was killed and another was critically injured in the Richland county area during the week-end in which at least 15 persons met death in traffic accidents throughout the state.

An unidentified 75-year-old man was killed instantly late Saturday when struck by an automobile while he was walking along a highway near Holmesville.

Edward Heiser, Galion, suffered critical injuries late Saturday when the car he was driving left the road near Crestline. Heiser was admitted to Crestline Emergency hospital. Three companions escaped serious injury.

Three other autos figured in a collision on State Route 13, about five miles north of Mansfield, early today when one driver swerved to avoid hitting a school child and collided with two other automobiles.

Sheriff Harry R. Weiss, Holmes county, today announced that Budd Walters, Wooster, driver of the car which struck an unidentified man about two miles north of Holmesville, had been exonerated. Weiss said the man, who carried scissor-grinding equipment, had been walking in the road and that Walters had been unable to see him.

Heiser was injured while en

Couple Wed In Bedside Ceremony At Chillicothe

CHILLICOTHE — (AP) — John Charles Shepherd, 28, a Cambridge attorney, was en route to Williamsburg, Va., last Thursday to be married when his automobile overturned and he was injured.

The wedding was scheduled yesterday afternoon. He thought it would be bad luck to postpone it.

So the bride-to-be, Miss Mary Jane Rymer, 20, of Huntington, W. Va., came here and they were married at Chillicothe hospital by the Rev. S. W. Rosenberger, Chillicothe Methodist minister.

Hospital Supt. Agnes Hatch decorated the staff room with flowers and for music borrowed a portable organ from an undertaker.

The honeymoon was to start late today after the bridegroom's release from the hospital.

Duke, Duchess To Be Guests at White House Tuesday.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Duke and Duchess of Windsor will have lunch with President Roosevelt at the White House Tuesday, Mrs. Roosevelt announced today, revealing at the same time that she will not be present.

The first lady said that she had a business appointment in Chicago tomorrow.

A reporter asked Mrs. Roosevelt if there was any truth to the reports that she was trying to avoid meeting the wife of the former English monarch, and she replied:

"There is absolutely no truth to such reports. I have never met the Duchess and I would like very much to meet her, but I have been unable to do so."

COUNTY FACES MONEY PROBLEM

Three Columbiana Departments Lack Operating Funds.

EAST LIVERPOOL—(AP)—The removal of an illegal one-mill levy early this year was blamed today for depleted coffers in three Columbiana county departments —sheriff's office, auditor's office and the Fairmount children's home.

Officials said the only hope of raising new money was in the passage of a two-mill levy to be voted on next Monday.

Sheriff George Hays said he was paying out of his own pocket the cost of transporting prisoners to and from penal institutions and other similar duties.

123 County Draftees Cheer As They Leave For Induction

Cheerful and apparently untroubled by the war picture, 123 young Richland countians left Mansfield in four special buses this morning for the Fort Hayes induction station in Columbus to begin their training in Uncle Sam's army.

It was the largest group of selectees to leave the county since the peace-time induction of men began late last fall.

Clerks of the county's three draft boards described the boys as "the happiest bunch" the boards have inducted. The youths sang and waved goodbye to relatives and friends as the buses moved through the downtown section shortly after 8 a. m.

The automobiles of scores of relatives of the boys who came to see them off created a traffic jam on Park avenue west and around Central park while the buses were loading. Selectees boarded the buses at the draft board offices from which they were inducted.

Mothers, wives, and sweethearts of the selectees were more solemn about their departure. There were tears in the eyes of many of the women and some of them wept audibly as the buses drove away.

The county's quota called for 126 men in the group that left today, but two of the Board 3 selectees were ill and unable to go, while Board 2 inducted one man from another city where he was employed.

A few of the 123 who left stand a chance of returning home within the next day or two if they fail to pass their final physical examinations at Fort Hayes. Those who qualify will be assigned to training centers.

Why Fire Levy Needs Votes

How good or bad is Mansfield's fire protection facilities? How old is our fire equipment? How much does the city's antiquated fire apparatus cost you in terms of fire insurance premiums? What will a successful half mill fire levy do toward bettering the situation?.

These and many other vital questions about the Mansfield fire department and the half mill levy upon which residents will vote on Nov. 4 will be answered in a series of articles starting in The News-Journal tomorrow.

The general welfare of Mansfield, the community in which you live, hinges largely on the amount of fire protection given your home and the homes of your neighbors.

Tomorrow The News-Journal will bring to you the first in a series of articles surveying the fire department situation and the manner in which levy funds would be used to rehabilitate the city's antiquated equipment.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — There is one encouraging development in our beginning naval war and one not so encouraging.

The first is the apparent tenacity of life of modern naval craft. It isn't permitted to go beyond the censored news but the very casualty list of the destroyer Kearny indicates that she must have had a terrible hole blown in her. Yet she reached port.

Johnson

Apparently her water-tight compartments and closed bulk-heads saved her, notwithstanding that the nature of her casualties hints that some men were imprisoned or drowned in them.

Some terribly wounded British ships are in American shipyards being repaired with remarkably swift efficiency. Their names and locations have generally been loyally withheld by the press but the facts are obvious to any interested local observers.

That the damage to some of them was not deadly seems incredible, but more incredible still is the fact that they were somehow brought limping here—sometimes half way around the world.

The answer appears to be much the same as it was in the case of the Kearny. They may not be invulnerable to attack, but they certainly take a lot of killing before they are really dead.

From all that can be learned that can be permissibly printed, the determination, resolution and heroism of these navy men has rarely been equalled and seldom surpassed. That apparently goes for all the principal combatants, British, American and German.

The published story of the Bismarck, chivied across the Atlantic by overwhelming strength and finally floating her colors, when completely ungoverable, circling helplessly like a quail shot through the head, going down with all hands and a final message of defiance from her commander is as heroic as any in naval history.

But don't let's forget Admiral Cervera's hopeless Spanish fleet, off Santiago, sinking almost to the last ship under our superior gunfire.

The discouraging development is the apparent complete helplessness of merchant ships. There are so few details of recent sinkings available, and the news seems to be being so fed out when and as it will produce the greatest warlike effect that it is dangerous to do any guessing.

But at this stage it appears that the only safety for merchantment is complete and active naval protection.

The idea of arming merchant vessels is distinctly debatable. It could do much more harm than good. It looks as though if a submarine or aerial bomber got within range the average commercial carrier is through — whether she is armed or not.

The authorities with the only real information available perhaps know best, but it would seem that a more complete and prompt disclosure of some of these sinkings would do more to condition public opinion than the piecemeal and apparently timed information that it is given out.

For example there has been a rumor around Washington for several days that, in addition to the Bold Venture and the Lehigh, a great Standard Oil tanker—the Walter C. Teagle—has been sunk. It may be announced before this piece appears.

There may be good reasons for this reticence and also for blacking out most of the information of what cargoes these ships are carrying, why they were where they were and how they happened to be unprotected.

Less rather than more frankness is to be expected. We are in this war to our gullets.

Roosevelt Renews 'Total Defense' Appeal

SUBMITS NEW PROPOSAL TO FREEZE WAGES

Plan To Be Offered To House Committee By Arkansas Representative.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A new compromise plan to freeze wages on a cost-of-living basis was ready for the house banking and currency committee today on the eve of final consideration of far-reaching price fixing legislation.

The new plan will be offered by Rep. Mills (D.) Ark., when the group starts a series of secret sessions tomorrow to report out a bill. During three months of public hearings, continual controversy has raged over whether wage controls should be written into the measure.

Mills' amendment, for which he claimed ever-increasing support, would work this way:

Whenever a ceiling is set on any commodity, that ceiling could not be lifted because of any increase in the cost of either raw materials or wages—except that if there is a boost in the cost of living, adjustments may be made to keep wages at the same ratio to living costs as they have today.

"This would automatically control the prices of materials and labor whenever a price ceiling is set on any article," Mills declared. "Labor has long contended that the wage increases they ask can be absorbed by increasing profits —and if this is true, then the wage increases can be allowed without raising the ultimate price. At the same time labor will be further protected by permitting adjustments for changes in the cost of living."

Mills' plan comes as a compromise between two bitterly opposed factions on the committee—those who believe that blanket controls should be placed over all prices, wages and rents, and those who believe in a selective system of controlling only inflationary prices and leaving wages alone.

Chairman Steagall (D.) Ala., meanwhile, predicted that the committee would complete its drafting work this week and report some kind of a price control bill to the house for possible consideration as early as next week.

GIVES UNDULANT FEVER WARNING

Health Commissioner Told Mansfielder Stricken; Urges Milk Caution.

City health officials said today that a case of undulant fever had been reported in the city and warned residents to buy and use milk and milk products only from approved dairies.

Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, announced that the case was reported yesterday and that a Mansfield resident had been stricken.

Wild said that although the disease can be communicated to persons through milk from cattle or goats it is not contagious. Undulant fever is so named because the fever accompanying the sickness undulates producing alternate high and low temperatures. It is also known as Malta fever.

The health commissioner said that the regular dairy which sells milk to the family in which the stricken person lives had been checked and found free from disease. He explained that cattle suffering from Bang's disease transmit undulant fever.

Wild urged all persons to patronize only registered dairies and said that the disease in this case had been transmitted through some cottage cheese given the family by a relative.

STEP LIVELY IF YOU WANT TO GET CHROME ON THAT NEW CAR

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—New car buyers who dote on shine and glamour have until Dec. 15 to satisfy their desires for "bright work." Chrome grilles, decorative trim, fancy hub caps and the like will be eliminated after that date.

OPM Priorities Director Donald M. Nelson, who recently ordered the industry to halve 1942 model production, issued the latest edict to manufacturers.

He ordered a halt in the production of all "bright work" requiring the use of aluminum, copper, nickel or chrome except in amounts needed to complete cars before Dec. 15 in order that the critical metals may be diverted to defense production.

Special permission may be granted, Nelson said, for the restricted use of materials to plate bumpers and bumper guards.

Among the "bright work" which must go, are shiny windshield wipers and mirrors, lamps and grille work, exterior and interior body trim, hub caps and steering wheels and horns.

But the automobile industry will not be alone in conserving critical materials. Nelson warned last night in a radio address that the nation must give up its normal, peace-time life "in toto" for the next two or three years if the defense program is to be successful.

"There is no half-way measure possible," he said. "Defense is going to take everything we can give it—everything. Our sacrifices are unavoidable."

Laff-a-Day

"Certainly I can take notes. . . . I took notes from the boys all through high school."

Mansfield's Home Guard company has lost six of its origina' 50 members since the company was organized last summer, making room for that many new members, according to Capt. Glenn L. Bierly, commander of the company. He said one of the company's members enlisted in the army, while the other five left because of demands of their regular work or for other personal reasons. Applications may be submitted to Capt. Bierly or other officers of the company. The Guardsmen plan to participate in the Armistice day ceremonies at Central park.

Russ Murphy, coach of the Mansfield high school Tygers when they set a national record of 38 games without defeat, joined in praise of this year's Tyger eleven today after their 6 to 6 tie with Massillon which halted Massillon's victory string of 38 games, but gave them a new record of 39 without defeat. Murphy, assistant coach at Cornell university, sent Principal Glenn G. Rohleder of Mansfield high school the following telegram: "Congratulations to your school and your fine football team. The Associated Press gave me the good news in the Yale Bowl Saturday and I let everyone know about the Mansfield Tygers and their fine showing.—Russ Murphy."

If you lost a topcoat or a suitcoat from your automobile during the past few months, you'd better go down to the Mansfield police station because it might be there. Police upon searching the quarters of a suspect in several burglary cases found a blue and a gray suitcoat and a topcoat which they believed were stolen from parked cars. The owners may recover the coats by identifying them, officers said.

That old adage about an apple a day keeping the doctor away probably will be heard often this week as Richland county orchardists and fruit dealers join in the observance of National Apple week. Big red and yellow apples are being displayed throughout the city in an attempt to "sell" Mansfielders on their value as a food. Orchardists in this section had one of the biggest crops on record this fall and the fruit is reported to be of unusually fine quality.

GIVES NAVY DAY TALK TO NATION TODAY

Calls For 'Willing Sacrifice' By Americans In Support of U. S. Defenses.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt sounded the keynote for observance of Navy day with a call for "total defense" and "willing sacrifice," so that the United States can halt the "forces of evil" and remain united and unconquerable.

In a letter to Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox urging expansion of the traditional 20-year-old salute to the navy to "navy and total defense day," the president set the stage for his nationwide radio broadcast tonight at 10 p. m., EST., over all major net works.

Mr. Roosevelt spent the weekend drafting his address which will be his first important one since Sept. 11 when he ordered the navy to "shoot on sight" any Axis raiders in American waters.

In the midst of the greatest rearmament program in history and of efforts to build a two-ocean fleet of dimensions hitherto unheard of, the nation celebrated Navy day. There were concerts, maneuvers and a series of speeches extolling the progress in development of seapower.

Already the navy has 346 warships built and another 345 on the ways. Knox predicted that the job would be done considerably ahead of the 1946 schedule.

Mr. Roosevelt said in his letter to Knox that the change from "Navy day" to "Navy and Total Defense day" would be clear to all "right-thinking Americans;" that it implied no change in spirit from past anniversaries which also coincided with the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt.

"Rather it strengthens that spirit in identifying t wth the responsibility of all of our people for national defense," he said.

He praised the navy for the thoroughness with which it already has assumed a "large share in that burden," and continued:

"Ship for ship, man for man, I am proud and confident in knowing the navy is ready to prove to the nation and to the forces of evil its fitness to assume that responsibility. . . .

"And so, on this Navy day of 1941, merged with a day consecrated to total defense, I ask all Americans to salute the navy, their navy, in a spirit of self-discipline in line with the historic traditions of the service itself, and to pledge to their navy a support involving willing sacrifice of personal, sectional and group interest in order that we may remain united and unconquerable."

Mr. Roosevelt's address tonight will be delivered at a dinner of 1,200 high-ranking defense, political, judicial and other figures at the Mayflower hotel. The diners will pay $5 each for bean soup, corned beef briskets and beer.

Transportation Workers Threaten Strike At Toledo

TOLEDO —(U.P.)— Operators of Toledo street cars and buses threatened today to strike at midnight Tuesday unless six night service men receive wage increases.

Walter Morgan, business agent for the street car and bus men's union (AFL), said that the strike motion was approved by the union members Saturday night. About 400 men would be affected.

A strike would tie up this city's public transportation system and affect about 400 men employed by the Community Traction company.

Charles H. Forsgard, company president, said he had no comment except that the company has followed the recent ruling of an arbitration board in regard to wage increases.

Morgan said the night service men were in the same employment classification as cleaners and janitors mentioned in the arbitration board decision.

Locke said that the superintendent in each department will explain the functions of their division to the visitors. Mrs. Osborn Meese is in charge of arrangements for the inspection.

Firemen See Trouble as Truck Breaks Down Again.

Mansfield firemen were called out for two fire runs over the week-end and although neither fire was very large, the fire fighters had a hard time wrestling with their equipment.

On previous occasions, most of the trouble has resulted from bad motors or broken-down pumping mechanisms. This time, however, firemen had trouble with their antiquated aerial truck.

Called to the home of R. K. Thomas in the Chalfern apartments on West Fourth street, the firemen tried to unlimber the aerial ladder on the big truck, only to find the rising devices were stuck "or choked up." The ladder was finally raised with firemen pulling the ladder wires by hand.

The other call was to the Volunteers of America, 290 North Main street, where an oil stove exploded. Little damage resulted.

Dance Tonight To Highlight City's Navy Day Program

Highlighting Mansfield's contribution to state and nationwide celebrations commemorating the 166th anniversary of the founding of the U. S. Navy, will be a Navy day dance in Moose hall today from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m., and sponsored by the Navy Mothers' club of Mansfield.

William G. Cox, local recruiting officer reported that the first Navy day recruit was Robert F. Whyte, 98 South Main street, a press operator at the Westinghouse and Electric and Manufacturing company, who was enlisted this morning in the Naval reserve for the "duration of the emergency."

After six weeks military training, followed by a session in a metalsmith school, he will be assigned to a unit of the U. S. fleet.

With the nation half in and half out of a shooting war, warships in continental ports will don full dress, breaking out their strings of signal flags in gala array.

But for the fleet units out at sea, it is a battle dress, as usual, especially for those that are now plowing the gray swells of the North Atlantic to guard munitions bound for England and Russia.

Workers Purchase Eight U. S. Bonds At Westinghouse

The largest individual defense bond purchase recorded to date in Mansfield was completed Saturday when the Mansfield Westinghouse Employes' Athletic and Recreation association spent $5,625 to purchase eight bonds with a total maturity value of $7,500.

Simultaneously company officials announced that employes had agreed to voluntary purchase of defense savings bonds through payroll deductions.

B. W. Clark, Westinghouse vice president, said that with a full week to go before the effective date for the stamp purchase plan, more than 60 per cent of the employes have turned in application cards for participation.

Although minimum deductions amounting to 50 cents per week are permitted in the voluntary plan, the average is considerably above that figure, according to Clark.

John McSweeney, defense savings administrator for Ohio, congratulated the welfare group on its purchase and thanked individual employes.

Purchase of the bonds was made through the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank. A committee headed by R. L. Odson, association president, turned the purchase price over to Robert S. Gibson, cashier.

WHEAT WEEVILS FORM PROBLEM

sidered the only effective weapon in fighting the pests and protecting stored grain, is being used by defense industries and the government and has become difficult to obtain for farm use, millers said.

Wheat infested with weevils is selling for as much as 30 cents a bushel under the regular market price, resulting in a heavy loss for farmers who have a large quantity of grain to sell.

Millers pointed out that the insects have become worse this year partly because of the huge amount of grain stored under the government AAA crop program which provides loans for farmers so they can hold their grain for better prices.

A number of farm bins are old and inadequate, leaving the grain open to damage by the weevils, millers said. One grain dealer urged farmers to borrow bin probes from millers to examine the wheat on farms for weevils.

Wheat infested by the insects usually heats under the surface and has a peculiar odor, and unless moved or treated immediately soon becomes unfit for use except as hog feed, millers said.

LEWIS ANSWERS ROOSEVELT MINE APPEAL TODAY

53,000 Workers Idle as UMW Chief Prepares Reply To President.

United States Steel corporation. In Alabama 8,000 were idle.

The strike began Saturday midnight after Lewis had rejected a suggestion by the president that it be deferred while the UMW leader and Myron C. Taylor, former chairman of the board of U. S. Steel corporation, tried to work out a solution.

Lewis said then he understood Taylor was unwilling to participate because he felt if he did any decision reached might be considered binding on the entire industry. However, he said he was ready to meet with Taylor.

President Roosevelt, in his letter to Lewis last night, said that Taylor would meet Lewis Wednesday. The Chief executive renewed his request that the UMW chieftain reconsider his strike decision and get the men back to the pits pending a final settlement.

"In this crisis of our national life," Mr. Roosevelt wrote, "there must be uninterrupted production of coal for making steel, that basic material of our national defense."

Lewis made no comment on the president's letter.

At issue is the UMW demand for a union shop in the "captive" mines because the owners use most of the output.

Presidents of locals in UMW District Four recommended yesterday Lewis call out the 400,000 workers in other soft coal mines if a settlement were not forthcoming quickly.

UMW officials estimated steel companies had only a week's coal supply on hand. There was general agreement that a protracted strike would halt steel production.

In rejecting the president's original request to defer the walkout, Lewis said that 40 days of hearings by the defense mediation board had proved futile.

Here's Text of Roosevelt Appeal

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Following is the text of President Roosevelt's second appeal to John L. Lewis to keep captive coal mines working:

"Dear Mr. Lewis:

"I acknowledge your letter of yesterday. You say that you do not feel warranted in recommending an additional extension of the temporary agreement to keep the captive mines in operation pending a final settlement of the controversy. I must ask you to reconsider this decision.

"In this crisis of our national life there must be uninterrupted production of coal for making steel, that basic material of our national defense. That is essential to the preservation of our freedoms, yours and mine; those freedoms upon which the very existence of the United Mine Workers of America depends.

"Mr. Myron Taylor is prepared to meet with you on Wednesday, to see if you and he in private and personal conference can work out a peaceful solution of the problem. You have agreed to confer with Mr. Taylor. During such conferences the production of coal for steel-making by the mine workers under the established wage scales of the Applachian agreement should continue in the broad interest of the safety and defense of the nation.

"I am, therefore, as president of the United States, asking you and your associated officers of the United Mine Workers of America, as loyal citizens, to come to the aid of your country. I ask that work continue at the captive coal mines pending the settlement of the dispute.

"Very sincerely your,

Franklin D. Roosevelt."

BELGIANS USE FIRE, DROWNING AGAINST NAZIS

(Editor's Note: Here is another in a series of articles about underground, anti-Nazi activities in the German occupied countries of Europe. This series, first comprehensive study of the situation, has been compiled from information supplied by neutral and "free government" sources.)

By MERRILL MUELLER
(INS Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—The undeclared war between patriotic Belgians and their Nazi overlords goes on with unabated fury and bitterness, despite the "official" total of 54 executed and 400 imprisoned, a spokesman for the Free Belgian government declared today.

"The Belgians at this moment are carrying on merciless sabotage against occupation authorities," he said.

"We blame the Germans for nearly 6,000 deaths caused among Belgian workmen carted off by German to work in the coastal industrial areas, which are frequently bombed by the R. A. F. and every day another Belgian disappears on some undefined charge, sent to prison or to a concentration camp.

"All sorts of sabotage have become so widespread that the Germans have been forced to organize a sort of rural guard.

"Supply depots of the German army have been set afire repeatedly. Several factories have been destroyed by flames or explosions, although no really big plants have been wrecked. Trains are constantly being derailed and one day the Germans discovered that 15,000,000 cartridges manufactured by the Fabrique Nationale D'Armee De Guerre had been left unfilled.

"Twenty men were shot recently near the French border for setting fire to a train and destroying it.

"Yet all this underground activity continues despite the Germans hiring Belgian spies at a salary of 1,200 francs a month.

"Hand drawn fingers of scorn decorate the walls of our cities pointing to the houses of these spies. They are well known to all patriotic Belgians.

"German soldiers continue to be thrown into the Mons canal each night, or into the Meuse river around Liege. The Nazis have repeatedly warned that the perpetrators of such acts will face firing squads, but their soldiers still get ducked and drowned.

"Officers, airmen and soldiers every day try to escape from Belgium and join the free forces to fight the Germans.

"Hand to hand fighting between Belgians and Germans has taken place in the streets of Brussels on numerous occasions, as the vicious but necessary campaign continues.

"Among the more important jobs of sabotage may be included the complete destruction by fire of the Roulers warehouses, gutting of the Gozellinesbossieres Grwin depot, and the burning of the Aalst shoe plant.

"The R.A.F. blasted a factory at Antwerp after it had been lit up by "neglectful workers." The Oboken oil refinery and the Avantin rubber factory also were somehow burned up.

"We have eliminated only one of our internal enemies, the chief of the Rexists at Tournai, who was mysteriously murdered on Sept. 17.

"But you may be sure that justice will come to all of them."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1941.

What's needed now is a snappy slogan, like "Remember the Maine!"

Even if another Alvin York—a nephew of the first—has enlisted in the army, there will still be need for other defense measures.

Herbert Hoover's desire to feed Europe's conquered people is understandable—and it may also be wished that a way could be found to prevent the murder of fifty hostages when a Nazi is assassinated in France.

Fires Endanger Homes, Jobs, Lives

PROVIDING sufficient equipment and enough firemen to meet the need of putting out fires promptly, and preventing spread to other property, is one of the most important community obligations.

It is a matter of vital interest to every citizen—not alone to property owners but to every industrial and mercantile employe as well, for a fire that is allowed to gain headway, because of faulty equipment or lack of manpower, can quickly put many people out of jobs in addition to causing heavy property loss.

As compared with the greater protection that will be made possible by contemplated improvements in the Mansfield fire department, the small added cost involved in the proposed one-half mill levy is inconsequential, and in many instances would be more than offset by resultant saving in insurance premiums—now unnecessarily high because of inadequate fire protection.

Without minimizing the importance of national and world conditions, it may be pointed out that the first concern of the people of a city must be for their own homes, their families, their jobs and their community — and guarding against needless fire losses is essential to civic and industrial welfare.

The one-half mill tax levy proposal has met with widespread expression of approval—but passage will require VOTES as well as verbal endorsement. The present danger is that some of those who strongly favor fire department betterment may not take the time to go to the polls and mark their ballot "For the Tax Levy," at the election a week from tomorrow.

Too Much of a Good Thing

RECENT record-setting rains in Florida and Kansas were not exactly welcomed by the inhabitants. In Kansas they engulfed crops, livestock and homes and caused tragic damage to the farmers affected. A foot of rain in a single storm is as undesirable as it is uncommon in the United States.

Nevertheless, after protracted drouth in many regions, it was good to know that rain could still fall. Man's conquest of nature hasn't made much headway with weather.

The best way to have rain, in the opinion of many, would be in steady amounts every night between midnight and 6 o'clock in the morning. Then, through the day, they'd prefer fair weather, sometimes nice and hot, sometimes with cool breezes. An occasional gray day would be permitted for the benefit of persons who considered it a wholesome contrast to abundant sunshine.

People who work at night, however, might not like this plan. Astronomers would complain that it blotted out regularly one period of sky observation. Manufacturers of rubbers, umbrellas, rain coats and garden hose might not care for it, either, for it would lower the demand for their products.

Perhaps there are other flaws in the plan which would quickly appear if it were ever tried out. So the weather may as well be left in the hands of Nature instead of being directed from Washington.

Finding Jobs for Soldiers

WHEN the Selective Service System was set up it provided for employment of drafted men as they were mustered out of the army at the end of their term of training. Wherever possible they were to get their old jobs back again. Otherwise, they were to have special help in finding new jobs if they wanted it.

Today, with some of these men already being released, the help appears to be needed. The war department has announced establishment of employment agencies in all army camps, posts and stations with 8,000 or more men. At the others, directors of the state employment service will supply soldiers seeking jobs with information and help.

If the plan works, it should mean a minimum amount of lost time for soldiers getting back to civilian life. It should prevent the injustice experienced by veterans of the World war, some of whom had a tough time getting jobs after returning from service.

Music as An Anesthetic

MUSIC not only has charms to soothe the savage breast, but greater potencies for good which may come under human control. Medical men are becoming interested in it now as an anodyne to take the place of anesthetics.

A remarkable experiment along this line was performed in Chicago the other day, in a difficult case of childbirth. The child was delivered by the severe surgical process of "Caesarian section." with merely a local anesthetic. While it was in process, the mother, fully conscious and evidently free from pain, listened to a Tchaikovsky concerto and hummed the airs. The physician, Dr. Edward L. Cornell, is said to have approved the use of "high fidelity" music as a "partial hypnotic."

"Frequency modulation" was used, permitting the reproduction of otherwise less audible high notes. The music was intended not as a charm, but as a distraction to the patient. She heard it through ear phones which shut out other sounds.

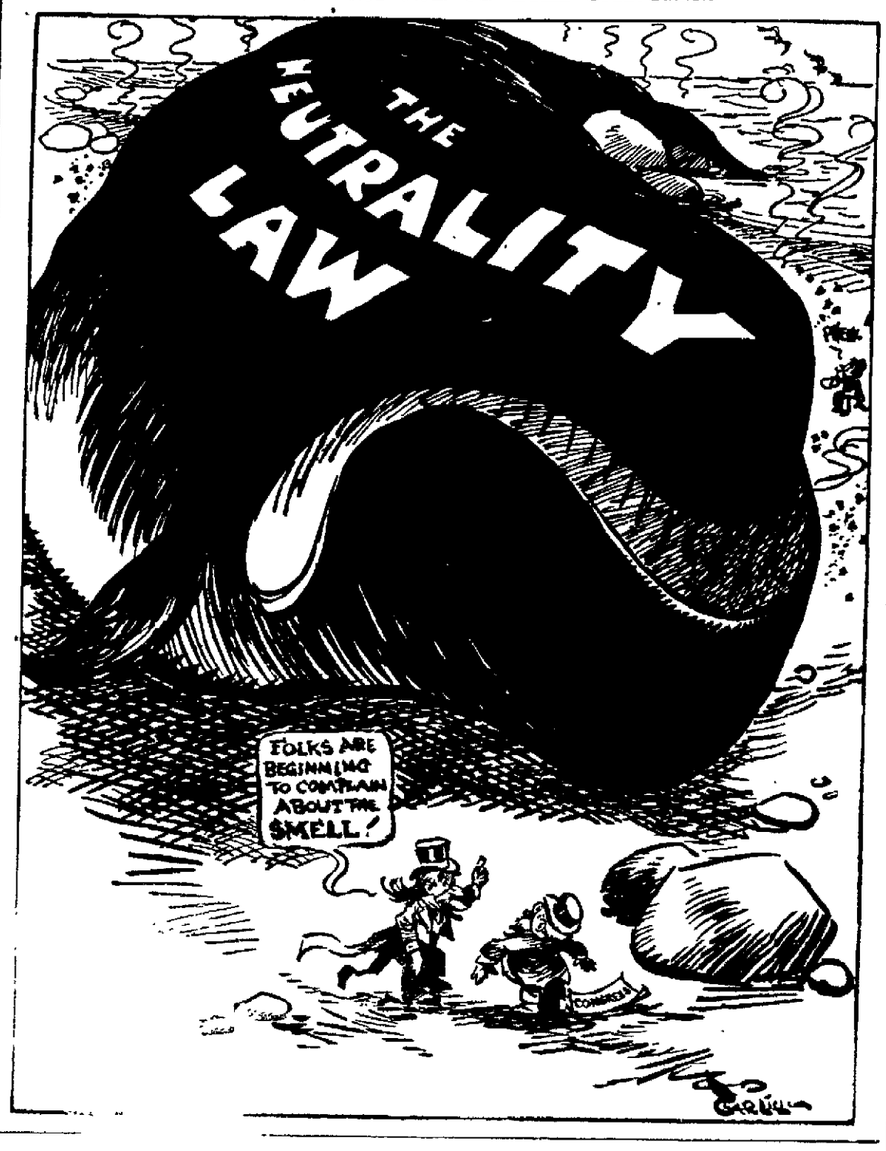
"All women should have their babies born to music," says the patient. "The whole thing was a symphony—the baby, the music, everything was just wonderful."

A congressman complains that $1-a-year-men "are making fools out of the solons"—but, in at least a few instances, Nature seems to deserve the blame.

With 168 hours in each week it may eventually be discovered that more than forty of them will have to be devoted to defense production.

Survey shows there are fewer horse thieves in the country now—but probably not any fewer of the kind of people who used to steal horses.

TIME TO DISPOSE OF THE CARCASS



Learning What to Do 'In Case'

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—If bombs ever fell on the United States our police won't be caught short on the knowledge of the best methods of meeting such emergencies.

Over at the Federal Bureau of Investigation, J. Edgar Hoover's boys have set up an exhibition straight from England, showing all of the equipment used by police during black-outs and air raids.

There are a couple of Oscars (ghoulish dummies used by the FBI in demonstrating murder investigations) togged out in costumes that would make Men from Mars look like a bunch of sissies. In snouted gas masks, rubber suits and boots, steel helmets walkie-talkie radios strapped to their backs, and "blackout lights," which look like cowbells at their belts, these two fellows are enough to finish off a good nightmare even if never a bomb was dropped.

* * *

TO ANYONE who ever has battled the traffic of American cities, probably even more impressive will be the display of street lights, traffic lights, and auto headlamps. With bumpers painted white, strips of white paint around fenders, and a single headlight that shows three slits of down-cast light, the sample of an authorized car for black-out driving can be dimly seen at 20 paces.

The street lamps, "20 feet above the kerb," toss out the glorious illumination of .02 of one candle-power—about the same as a lighted cigaret held a foot away from the object you wish to see.

The traffic lights are the customary green-yellow-red, but the light is emitted from little four-inch crosses, with bars an eighth of an inch wide.

There's a lot more to the exhibition—bomb shelters, various methods of combatting incendiary bombs, air raid sirens, first aid in air raids, and a dozen other horrendous things that any good police force in a bombed city would have to know.

The exhibition is semi-public—that is, available to visitors to the Justice Department Building, when it is not being used to instruct "re-training courses" in the FBI's national police school.

* * *

THERE is one story in connection with the exhibition that never has been told. Early last winter, Hoover sent two of his ablest assistants to London at the height of the air-raid season.

He told them to take their time, to make a thorough study of everything that had to do with police activity during blackouts aid air raids. He armed them with special letters to Scotland Yard officials and ordered them to bring back every item of equipment that might be used in demonstrating British methods to the American police.

The men stayed four months and collected hundreds of pieces of equipment, ranging from mittens with the finger tips cut out (for teletype operators, and such, during gas attacks) to tail-fins from 4,400-pound "land mines" (which were dropped on London and made craters 60 feet deep).

The men came back by plane, the exhibition by ship. Somewhere off the coast of the British Isles, ship and exhibition lie at the bottom of the sea, victims of a submarine.

It took nearly six months more to assemble another collection and get it over here. It is the only such exhibition in the United States.

Rigid Tests Would Cut Auto Deaths

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IT IS the job of the physician to prevent automobile accidents by determining who shall and who shall not drive automobiles.

There is an immediate opposition to this kind of high-handed procedure among freeborn Americans who won't have their personal liberty threatened. But with a record of over 30,000 people killed and over 1,200,000 injured in North America, 85 per cent of which is due either to incompetent drivers or worn-out equipment in the machinery of a car, it is high time that the personal liberty plea be suppressed with a stern hand and drivers who are liable to kill other people ruled off the roads.

A case in point was that of a 63-year-old man who was sent to the medical examining board of the recorder's court of a state traffic division. He had hard arteries everywhere, his judgment of speed and distance was poor, as were his reaction times and his depth perception. Mentally, he had an intelligence quotient of 70, which is that of a nine-year-old child. He had received over 150 tickets for motor traffic offenses.

When his license was revoked, he protested sufficiently vigorously to take the case to the circuit court. Here a surgeon testified that his arteries were all right, but he had not examined the eyes, and when asked what the mental condition of the patient was, replied he was not a psychiatrist.

Driver's Medical Inquiry.

The conditions into which a medical examining board inquire particularly are:

1. Vision; 2. Systemic disease; 3. Habitual drunkenness (which in most cases, is merely camouflage for mental or character deficiency); 4. Insanity; 5. Feeble-mindedness (this is usually so masked that the driver's relatives don't realize it); 6. Nervous instability, causing lack of reasonable driving control.

Mental defects and lack of judgment are considered more important than physical defects. This is the result of experience. A person with a physical defect, but of good judgment, learns to compensate for his disabilities and makes a safe driver. One would think that color-blindness would be an insuperable barrier, but experience has taught that it plays a very insignificant part in motor accidents. Minor visual acuity also, in actual experience, is not a serious menace.

Heart Invalids.

Heart invalids are a problem. Will they have a heart attack and lose consciousness at the wheel? Actual experience shows that only those with minor disability want to drive at all, and the danger is, in practice, almost non-existent.

The real menace is the person with low mental capacity and poor jugdgment. Does he feel that his driving privilege is one that is given him by the Constitution or by God, and no one has any right to take it away from him? Does he explain all his accidents as the other fellow's fault? If a man cannot stop in time, even if he has the right of way, he is almost as much at fault as the offender who drove across the right of way.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Lehigh's Cargo Unloaded In Spain Believed Trans-Shipped to Nazis

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—An ironic twist of fate makes it likely that when the Nazis sank the U. S. owned Lehigh, they bit the hand which had fed them—via Spain. The Lehigh had just unloaded a cargo at Bilbao, Spain.

It may be officially denied, but there is excellent intelligence evidence that a large proportion of the oil, grain and other important raw materials landed at Bilbao are shipped immediately to Germany.

The state department, despite inner cabinet opposition, has insisted on sending a certain amount of supplies to Spain contending this was the only way to keep the Franco Fascist government from going over to Hitler. Other cabinet officers have maintained Franco was already with Hitler and that these supplies were merely circumventing the British blockade.

Gloomy Society.

SOCIALLY speaking, Washington has never had so much money to spend, but something has happened to take the merry out of the merry-go-round. Not only at the White House, but all over town, "the season" starts under a cloud. The florists, the engravers, and the champagne salesmen will have a lean year.

Even before the White House made its announcement suspending state dinners and formal receptions, the ladies who make a business of planning the Capital's social life had hung their heads and agreed that defense was more important than debutantes.

Mrs. W. Laird Dunlop, who cancelled her annual Black and White Ball, puts it this way: "I'm sorry to say, since its my livelihood, that the debutantes and the pretty parties will not have the stage this year. Last year, after a late start, the season picked up and moved along nicely. But it's different this year."

Mrs. Dunlop, who has her finger on the social pulse of the town, says people are too panicky for parties, and it hurts their conscience to pay out $1500 or $2000 for a single evening's gaiety.

"There are 25 or 30 debutantes," says Mrs. Dunlop, "and they have taken tentative dates for their parties, but they're scared of what lies ahead. Frankly, I haven't the spirit or enthusiasm for the season this year."

Meantime, hotels are doing a rushing business—but not in the ballrooms.

Defense Crackdown.

ATTENTION! All plant owners! And consumers, too, because they also will be affected.

Defense chiefs aren't advertising it, but they have a crackdown up their sleeves that will make the recent Chicago order against "bootlegging" raw materials look like child's play.

What is secretly in the works is a nationwide forced conversion of plant facilities for defense production.

The detailed procedure for this sweeping step is still in formulation, but the general plan has been decided. It includes three methods:

(1) Requisitioning entire industries, now only partially devoted to defense output; (2) compulsory drastic cuts in non-defense production; (3) depriving plants of raw materials excepting those needed for defense orders.

Any one of these measures would compel a manufacturer either to obtain defense orders or go out of business.

Principal factor behind this drastic program is the temporizing of business-minded OPM production officials in compelling recalcitrant manufacturers to go all-out in defense production. The OPM masterminds are still trying to use persuasion instead of the mandatory powers voted by congress.

For example: Fifty-six of the biggest concerns in the country have 75 per cent of the dollar volume of defense contracts so far awarded. Yet with the exception of shipbuilding and aircraft plants, none of the others has converted their machines, tools and manpower to full armament output.

Instead, most of them have succeeded in securing government financing for the construction of new plants and additions to execute their defense orders. So far the government has commitments to erect over 2,700 of these new plants—at a cost of hundreds of millions of dollars.

But the cost isn't the only consideration. Far more important is the loss of priceless time. It takes anywhere from eight months to two years to build, equip and man these plants.

Note: While the British have converted their auto and other mass production plants 100 per cent to armament making, the U. S. auto industry, with 16 per cent of the country's production facilities, is still largely on a business-as-usual basis. Even with the fanfared cuts so far announced, the industry on January 1 will still be using 51 per cent of its facilities for turning out pleasure cars and only 49 per cent for defense orders.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A bull fighter by the name of Ricardo Torrez blew into town the other day from Europe. He had an interesting story to tell. He had been fighting bulls in the conquered countries of Europe, he said, for Hitler, and earning thousands of dollars per fight. Right now he is trying to ascertain the whereabouts of his trunks, containing all his clothing, which he shipped by boat. He crossed by clipper. He has the claim checks for his duds but can't find the trunks.

He had a pattern of scars on his legs. The pattern was a perfect herring bone design, up and down each calf. "I got those scars from the horns of bulls," he explained.

VAUGHN MONROE'S opening at the Commodore in New York was an interesting event. The newcomer to the big leagues of dance bands has an enthusiastic following. He is tall and a good looker. The women go for him, and the men like him too. That's important. I can name you only one outstanding orchestra leader who is liked by women but disliked by most men.

The Commodore follows the patriotic motif so noticeable this year—red, white, and blue. Backing up the band is an extensive floorshow. At an adjoining table I recognized Robert J. Flaherty, who is making documentary films for the government. He directed "Elephant Boy," and he is well known for "Man of Aran." Most of his life has been in out of the way places—in the wild, desolate parts of Ireland, on South Sea island beaches and in the Arctic. He has just finished "The Land" for the department of agriculture. Flaherty, a big, powerful fellow, seemed puzzled by what he saw. At least, that was my impression. He chatted easily for a while with friends. But when the sohw was over, he went out, pondering, no doubt, the differences between the young girls he saw in their lovely gowns as they swayed to Monroe's rhythms and their more primitive sisters on the islands of the Pacific who find the same release, to the thumping of drums.

Blood of the Martyrs.

A German officer is assassinated at Nantes. Fifty French "hostages" are shot in reprisal. Another German officer is assassinated in Bordeaux. Another 50 Frenchmen, unconnected with the incident, are arrested for the firing squad.

Assassinations will not drive the Nazis out of France or other conquered countries, but they are symptomatic of a widespread desire for revenge, which in the end may achieve that purpose. Shooting 50 "hostages" for every Nazi slain won't stop sniping at Nazi officials. When people approach desperation they will strike back regardless of consequences to themselves or others. The Nazis have met up with something beyond force—a spirit that feeds on the very barbarism used to suppress it.—Akron Beacon-Journal.

A Farmer's Diary

Hard Luck

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I VISITED a friend in an adjacent county. Ten years ago he planted 30 acres to apple trees. Some of the land was too poor for general farming, so he put the orchard on the roughest, thinnest part. A nursery company persuaded him to borrow the money and do the planting all in one year. Fortunately, the three following years he harvested splendid field crops and paid his obligation. But to do this, he robbed his land, and could not make necessary repairs on the buildings.

When I drove in, I met him at the corner of the orchard. The trees looked thrifty.

"And what do you think of this?" he said, waving a hesitant hand toward the trees.

"Didn't you have any fruit?" I wondered. The orchard looked almost bare.

"Why, yes — the apples were there all right, but they've blown down three weeks ago. We've had two heavy blows—one lasted two days and nights. All night I could hear apples droppin' as if someone was shakin' the trees on purpose. It was the first big crop I've had, and I counted on it to lift the mortgage. Now I won't get 20 cents a bushel. Then during the storm, a wild cherry tree blew over down in the pasture, and when the leaves began to wilt my cows ate 'em and four died. I never knew wilted wild cherry leaves was poison, until the veterinary told me.

"It seems like the devil himself's into everything this fall. Sometimes I think a man'd better not own anything. But then again, I feel such reverses bring out the best in any man who's got the right stuff in him. But it's a lot easier to talk about it than to take the bitter dose of gettin' licked...o' course a lot depends on who's fightin' you. General Lee was a greater man in defeat than in victory and Lincoln never did lose faith, even when the clouds was blackest.

"My wife and I have decided to go right on. We'll both be better satisfied. We've met every payment so far, and by golly if we lose this farm 'twon't be because we didn't try. Maybe the hard luck we're havin' now will make us stronger and better able to manage the next time. Anyhow that's how we look at it."

What Is Life Insurance For?

Life insurance, of course, pays funeral and other costs incident to the last illness. But the primary intent is usually to provide for the needs of the living.

To that end we urge that expensive funerals be avoided when the funds are needed for surviving dependents.

Heads of families who have ideas about this are invited to call and express their wishes. Definite arrangements that will protect the estate can be made by any who desire them.

Pet Clubs As Part of Education

By GARRY C. MEYERS, Ph. D.

While visiting in hundreds of classrooms throughout the United States, I have seen all sorts of animals in the class room, from snakes to lambs. Recently in a fifth grade class I witnessed a pet club in action. They were conducting a "quiz" about pets based on newspaper clippings which the club had collected.

Some of the questions asked of the club were: What famous bloodhound retired recently? Where can you see a bird cage worth $250? Who is Mickey? Who was Laddie? Bull dogs first originated in France, England, Spain?

I asked the children to write and send me an account of their club. Here is what they wrote, in part:

"In the Pet Club we try to learn more about the care of animals, what they like, how to make them friendly as well as to find out unusual things about them. We try to teach others to be considerate and kind, by our acts, pictures, stories or plays.

Pets Studied in Class.

"This year our club has studied several pets in our own school room. We've had rabbits, kittens, dogs, gold fish and even a young goat. Owners have explained how these animals should be handled and fed. Children in the lower grades seem to enjoy hearing these accounts as much as our own members do.

"This term we have collected newspaper and magazine articles about pets. Stories about animals have been most interesting to us. Pupils in other activities have saved many clippings for us.

"A committee studies the clippings, the best ones being read and studied in class. Some are posted on our bulletin board. Those we find most interesting and unusual are placed in a scrap book. Some of our clippings were used by other children in an auditorium program.

"Toward the end of the term we worked out a short program, so we could pass on some of our interesting stories."

In addition to the facts gained by these children and their learning to be kind to animals, they were given good practice at reading from interesting sources. Any child who wished to develop an individual hobby at home or one with several other children might be able to use the best plans of this club, especially that of keeping a scrap book with clippings from newspapers and magazines about pets.

For Tuesday, Oct. 28.

Under an excellent augury for expansion, growth, increased power and popularity, in both personal and business affiliations, this should be a day for pushing to high goals of accomplishment. All objectives are under highly productive signs, with those in influential positions ready to cooperate with capital for promotion or otherwise. However, there may also be stubborn obstacles.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a progressive and fruitful year, with definite approach toward attainment of cherished ambitions. There are signs of expansion, growth, increased personal prestige and power, with influential friends or business interests ready to co-operate. Friendly and social factors are important in promoting all plans, which should be soundly developed. There might be some setbacks.

A child born on this day will have great ambitions, with much adaptability and efficiency in achieving them.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I did not utter even a conventional protest against my father's order that I must try to get some sleep before Lillian should waken and need me.

"'Chief's orders' are very welcome," I told the nurse, who, with swift, sure movements, had already gone to a small electric refrigerator disguised as a desk and taken from it some milk. This she was heating over an electric grill plugged in from the top of the "desk."

"You like salt in hot milk, I seem to remember," she said, pouring the hot milk into a cup.

"Yes, thank you," I returned smiling, "but no sedative, please."

"I don't fancy that you need one," she returned.

She brought me the milk and I sipped it luxuriously, while, disregarding my protests, she stooped and removed my shoes.

Madge Goes to Sleep.

"Now, in you go," she said, taking the drained cup from my hand, "and I don't want to hear a peep out of you until I call you."

"You won't," I told her drowsily, for the hot milk had eased the tension of my nerves.

"Thank you so much," I said as I nestled into the pillows. Then, with less than a minute of wakefulness, I knew no more until the nurse's fingers pressing my wrist brought me back to consciousness.

"In five minutes it will be time to get up," she said.

"I can get up now," I told her, but she put me back firmly as I tried to rise.

"Five minutes," she said inexorably, and I settled back again.

Harry Underwood Watching.

"Mr. Underwood is watching his wife," she said. "After your father left, about an hour ago, he came directly upstairs. I'm not going to attempt to give either of you breakfast now. Perhaps later, and I'm putting a pot of coffee on the grill, and I have some crusty croissants fresh from the oven, if either of you happen to want one."

"Did you ever know anyone in either family to refuse a cup of coffee or a croissant?" I asked her, smiling.

"No, I never did," she said, "and if that be any criterion, I must belong to the family."

"I think you do, on more counts than that," I told her earnestly.

"Thank you," she said, and I lay still, lazily watching her as she spread a table with a cloth and placed cups, saucers, small plates, silver, cream and sugar upon it.

"Would you like a shower?" she asked.

Lillian Looking Better.

"Not now," I decided, "but I'll keep on this negligee, I think, and Lillian's slippers fit me nearly enough to be comfortable."

"I'll let you up now," she said, "and you can pick out a pair."

I rose, found the slippers, and with a brief laving of my face and hands in Lillian's bathroom, and a swift re-doing of my coiffure, I came back to the sitting room. Then Miss Whitlock went directly to the bedroom door and knocked softly.

When Mr. Underwood answered she beckoned him out, and his face lightened when he saw me.

"You look so much better," he said, "and perhaps it's my imagination, but Lillian's face seems less worn."

"She has had a long sleep," Miss Whitlock said. "And now get this coffee down, both of you, so that you'll be ready when she wakens."

"We obeyed her, and all three of us did justice to the coffee and croissants. Then, when she had cleared away, the nurse beckoned us both into the bedroom, and put us into chairs at Lillian's bedside.

"I want her to see both your faces when she first opens her eyes," she said, "but please wait until I give you a signal before you tell her anything. I'm anxious to see what her first reaction is."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

MAJORS TOP MINORS

It cannot be dinned too strongly into the ears of pretty fair average players that the question of an opening bid on a borderline hand depends somewhat on whether its main suit lengths are in the major suits or the minors. This is especially true in fourth-hand position. After all of the other three players have passed, you don't want to open unless the chances are your side will score. So, if the total strength is about evenly divided, as it must be in such a case, it is quite likely that one side can take about as many tricks at its best suit as the opponents can at their best one. The side with minors then must either see its opponents make a score, or else overbid and get set.

	♠ Q J 10 5 ♥ K 9 ♦ 8 7 2 ♣ Q J 10 4
♠ A K 6 4 ♥ Q 8 5 3 ♦ Q 9 ♣ 7 6 3	N. W. E. S.	♠ 8 7 2 ♥ A J 10 4 ♦ J 10 5 4 ♣ K 9
	♠ 9 3 ♥ 7 6 2 ♦ A K 6 3 ♣ A 8 5 2

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
1 ♠	1 NT	Pass	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	Pass	3 ♣

And there you find South in a contract which is just one trick too high for him, as he must lose two tricks in spades, two in hearts and one in diamonds. Notice that, if the bidding had been allowed to drop with West's last call of 2-Hearts, that contract would have been made, with the loss of one trick in spades, two in diamonds and two in clubs.

Those hands are synthetic, deliberately fabricated to illustrate the point. Notice how different would have been the result of South's bid if his two suits had been spades and hearts instead of diamonds and clubs. Then his side would have had the advantage in the bidding, because of the higher rank of the suits, and the opponents would have had to go over their depth to take the bid away.

This same principal applies to countless hands that are dealt in the regular way. Of course, if South had longer suits, and consequently greater distributional values, the fact that he had only an ordinary amount of honor strength, principally minor suit distribution and no valuable intermediate cards might have been offset by his long-suit trick takers.

Tomorrow's Problem.

What is the soundest bidding of this deal?

Who Writes The First Letter?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've recently become engaged to a young man whose home is a long distance from mine. Consequently, I've never met his parents. He told me the other day that his folks were expecting to hear from me. They seemed happy over the coming marriage. What would you suggest? I always thought the man's parents wrote the first letter.

SALLY.

You're right, Sally. As a rule the parents or family of the young man write a friendly letter of welcome to the girl. You might tactfully suggest to your fiance that you've been waiting for them to write to you. However, it would be very nice and gracious on your part if you made the first move to become acquainted with his family.

* * * *

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm a woman in my 30's, been married nearly twelve years to a man a lot older than I am. He is a heavy drinker. We are farmers and haven't much money but whenever he goes to town he gets his liquor. His health is poor, and when he went to a doctor a year ago he was told to stop his drinking or he'd lose his mind. But still he keeps on.

Some of his people say it's my fault, and some tell me to leave him, but I love him and he is all I have on the face of the earth. I've tried everything. He's never satisfied to live in one place. We've bought a farm and don't owe anybody a penny. Now he wants to sell and go into some kind of business in town. But I don't think we'd make good there, as neither one of us has had any busines experience or much education. I've tried my best to make a go of the farm, doing anything that comes along.

Will you please give me your best advice? MRS. T. B.

It seems we're never without those kind friends who attribute a man's drinking to his wife, no matter how patient and hard-working she may have been. Having read your letter thoroughly which is too long to print, I believe your husband's restlessness is due in a large measure to his craving for alcohol.

Residents in the Dallas school district in the southern section of the county are speculating on the possible development of the area when and if farm lands purchased by the government or under option, are developed into small farms for families in the relocation program now in progress under government supervision.

A farm of 650 acres in the district has already been purchased by government interests and options have been taken on six other farms totaling more than 2,000 acres.

Located in the district is the Dallas school, the smallest consolidated school in the country, which this year is operating with one teacher in charge of 16 pupils. The school was built to accommodate approximately 60 pupils but during the last several years the enrollment has steadily decreased. Development of the district is expected to bring new life to the school, which is also a community center.

MUSICAL PROGRAM GIVEN AT SCHOOL AUDITORIUM IN GALION

GALION — Those who did not attend the Sunday afternoon concert at Galion Senior high school auditorium Sunday, missed a rare musical treat.

Donald Scott-Morrison of Napoleon, talented pianist, entertained the appreciative audience present for the occasion in one of the best programs to be sponsored here for some time by Bessie Todd, local music teacher.

Scott-Morrison's program, a conversation concert, was presented in unique manner. He "made up" and dressed in costume on the stage to impersonate the composer whose compositions he played, and while making up he gave brief accounts of the life of the author and descriptions of the composition.

First part of the program was played on the harpsichord, and preceding this Mr. Scott-Morrison informally told his audience something of the history of the instrument.

Second half of the program was played on the concert grand piano.

A pianist of more than ordinary talent, Mr. Scott-Morrison is a pupil of Guy Maier and Tobias Mattay, studying with the former at Ann Arbor, Mich., and the latter in London, England. He also studied with Juilliard School in New York and with Arthur Loesser in Cleveland.

Compositions of Scarlatti, Bach, Chopin, Liszt, and Debussy were on the program.

Assisting the pianist was Harold McCuen of Mansfield, who presented a dramatic interlude, the scene from "The Barrett-Brownings," impersonating Robert Browning.

A covered-dish dinner was served at noon as part of the homecoming program. A large number of former members and pastors of the church were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Annis of Chillicothe, O., were guests at the First Baptist church.

The will provided for $10,000 to be set aside for a suitable mausoleum for the bishop and his deceased wife and provided for other legacies including $5,000 to be paid out of a trust fund set by the bishop's wife for promotion of the Communistic party.

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Dear Rex Hess:

First of all, I want to tell you how much this family enjoys your column. We like the personal touch you give us about the people of whom you write, and one cannot help find pleasure in your Tyger comment, thus this letter.

I am sure you have enjoyed the football programs of the season, but have you missed anything—I can hear you mentally commenting: "No, there are pictures and statistics from the coaches down to the janitors."

* * *

But I ask you what of those lowly managers? The boys who do Pop's hoofing for him; the boys who are part valet, nursemaid and waterboy The boys who on Saturday mornings, when the team is resting on its laurels, are in the equipment room sorting dirty, sweaty, muddy uniforms to have ready for the next fray. The boys who shine the shoes; polish the helmets, and catch h—from every agrieved player who has sampled a like brand from the coach. The boys who on game night are on their toes to be helpful in any way possible.

* * *

Never a word of these who are classed with the dodos. Just a tiny word of recognition would make the task of a manager a bit more pleasureful—I know from whence I speak, I am the mother of one. A boy who spent over a year in bed with an osteo, unable to participate on the field of honor, but able to drag the equipment in over the mud and wet that others can star. Three years he has given his time with the rest of the forgotten men. . . .

* * *

I am not blaming anyone for the omission, for I neither know or care who gets the program material together.

I was looking back in my high school annual, and even in those dark ages when the Mansfield Tyger was just a kitten the managers were part of the team and recognized as such.

With this off my chest, and a good cup of coffee I'm ready for my day.

Yours, for giving every dog a day.

* * *

P. S. Saturday morning: I just had time to look at my Massillon program. They have nice looking managers don't they?

RUTH K. ZERBY

* * *

Thank you Mis Zerby for those kind words, and for filling this column on Monday morning.

And lest another Tyger sports crew goes forgotten let me remind you that the Mansfield high cross country team finished third in the northwestern meet at Ottawa park Toledo, Saturday with Toledo Libbey winning with 42 points Fremont second with 67, and Mansfield scoring 72.

And leading the entire pack was that fast stepping Tyger, Floyd Sowash who covered the two-mile stretch in 10 46 8, his best time of the season to win a gold medal. Silver medals went to Delancy Black, Robert Pore and James Smith of the Mansfield team.

7 FOOTBALL TEAMS PUSH TO NATION'S TOP SPOT

NEW YORK—(NS)—Out of the sweat and dust of another fiercely contested football week-end emerged seven teams today, heroes of their respective sections and all leading candidates for national honors.

Heads up and looking brightly toward tomorrow's horizon were the Rams of Fordham and the Quakers of Pennsylvania in the east; the Golden Gophers of Minnesota and the Irish of Notre Dame in the midwest, a thundering herd of Texas longhorns, kings of the Panhandle district, and Duke and Vanderbilt in the south

CRIPPLED MINNESOTA UNCERTAIN OF WILDCATS

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Mighty Minnesota will be crippled Minnesota this week as the Golden Gophers carry the last perfect record in the Big Ten against Northwestern in the third game of a critical round robin between Minnesota, Michigan and Northwestern

Michigan whipped Northwestern, 14 to 7, and Minnesota wrecked Michigan, 7 to 0, but today, with three men crippled by injuries of an uncertain nature, Minnesota was a doubtful choice to carry out the logical course of events by downing rebounding Northwestern.

Wolves Fail to Pan Bucks

Scrappy Ohio Staters Receive Praise In Loss.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— If you are one of those misguided souls who believes there's nothing new under the sun, you should chat bit with a few of the folks who sat in Ohio State's stadium Saturday as the Bucks bowed to Northwestern, 14 to 7.

There was a day around this football-mad town when defeat sent the fans home grumbling; when the coach and the team were "on the pan" for days as the downtown quarterbacks explained to each other how the game should have been won.

* * *

But the 71,896 who saw Saturday's setback seemed as proud of the Bucks as they were the day, not so long ago, that the same club pounded out an unexpected 33 to 0 conquest over Southern California. In fact, the fans appeared a little "strutty" about the Bucks.

* * *

Coach Paul E. Brown was hailed as a hero for the showing made by the Bucks against the highly-rated 'Cats. No one was blamed for the defeat, and there was an under-current of "we've got a chance to beat Michigan" in all the conversations.

A few months ago when Brown moved up from his high school job at Massillon, he promised Ohio fans:

* * *

"We'll have a well-conditioned team. We'll have a fighting team. We expect to lose, now and then, but they'll have to kill us by inches—for no one will run over us."

* * *

And the fans who sat in on the Wildcat game know he spoke the truth. Twice the Bucks, after giving ground in midfield, hurled the heavier and faster Wildcats back on the one-yard line, and again on the 10. The two Wildcat triumphs came through the air—the "easy" way. Ohio staged a 70-yard march for its score, and might have wound up in a tie had the first half been a few seconds longer The gun found the Bucks on the three yard line, with two seconds to go.

A fumble by Fullback Bob Hecklinger on the 16-yard line—the only glaring Ohio mistake of the day—gave Northwestern the ball for the winning touchdown, which went over two plays later. But there was no criticism of the boy who fumbled, either by the fans, Brown or the kid's teammates.

The loss wrecked Ohio's chances for an undefeated season—but the fans, who had been expecting the under-manned Bucks to lose even earlier than this, took it in stride.

Peckinpaugh May Be Tribe Manager

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland baseball club, disclosed today he is considering the transfer of Roger Peckinpaugh from field manager to general manager of the club next season.

* * *

Returning to his desk after a vacation, Bradley said that the problem of finding a successor for C. C. Slapnicka as general manager might be solved by moving Peckinpaugh into the office.

* * *

The Indian prexy refused to give any hints on who he has in mind as "an outstanding man" but he did erase Bill Terry and Charley Dressen.

Galion Jaycees Smear Toledoans

GALION—Taking their fourth consecutive victory, Galion's powerful Jaycees marched over Toledo Merchants, 38-6, yesterday at Heise park field here. There were 1 500 out to see the game.

Bullet Clabaugh and Gene Harmon led the Galion ataack with George Corrado pitching passes for long gains Harmon raced 25 yards for the first touchdown, and Corrado passed to Ernst for 22, setting up Clabaugh's plunge for 2 yards and the second score.

* * *

Harmon went five yards for the third touchdown in the second period and a 25-yard Corrado to Shupp pass was followed by a 21-yard Corrado to Yeager touchdown pass giving Galion a 25-0 advantage at half.

* * *

Clabaugh hit center for 2 yards and a touchdown in third period and Toledo tallied its only score on a Clifford to Bertling for 8 yards shortly afterward. Chuck Smythe's 55-yard run after pass interception was nullified by clipping penalty. He took it over from the 1-yard line a few plays later.

BULLS BEAT CARDS

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Paced by Bob "Twenty Grand" Davis, who scored one touchdown on a nine-yard end run, set up another for Russ Buckley by returning an intercepted pass to the 17-yard line, and passed to Wayland Becker for a third, the Columbus Bulls defeated Kenosha's Cardinals 20-7 Sunday before a crowd of 6581. The Cardinals scored in the second period on an eight-yard end sweep by Art Blaha.

MEET IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Approximately 8,000 delegates were expected for the opening sessions today of the annual state convention of the Order of Eastern Star.

BOB KEEFE STEPS IN FAST COMPANY

The tennis season is over, so Bob Keefe, Mansfield southpaw racquet swinger, has gone back to the table tennis game. Last week he paired with Harry Cook, Canadian national champion, to defeat Douglas Cartland, southern states champion, and Ralph Stewart, Marion city champion, 23-21, 11-21, 21-14 in an exhibition match at Marion, witnessed by over 200 fans.

3 Ohio Clubs Still Winning

List of Unbeaten and Untied Cut Saturday.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio's unbeaten and untied football contingent stood at three today, but after scanning the schedule for the rest of the campaign the "lost one" group saw chances for a share of the state collegiate crown.

Ohio Wesleyan, Case and Wittenberg were perched at the peak, the Battling Bishops with five victories, and the Scientists and Lutherans with four each. Youngstown is on their heels with five conquests and a tie

* * *

Bowling Green came through with the most resounding upset of the year, batting Heidelberg's Student Princes out of both the state and Ohio conference leaderships Saturday by the unlooked-for score of 39 to 6. Ohio State's Bucks also bowed out of the "clean" class, but looked good while losing to Northwestern's mighty men, 14 to 7.

* * *

Wittenberg, boasting the only unsullied goal line in the Buckeye realm, and defending both the state and Ohio loop championships, has a rough road ahead. Each of the remaining foes of the Stobbmen is in the upper half of the Ohio loop standing, and none has suffered more than one defeat. The Lutherans face Heidelberg, Bowling Green, Wooster and Denison, each capable of giving the Springfielders a tussle.

Wesleyan must brush aside Akron, Ohio university, Case and Michigan State, while Case has Carnegie Tech, Baldwin Wallace and Western Reserve, along with Wesleyan, as future opponents. Youngstown tangles with Tennessee Tech and Akron's Zippers.

With the odds indicating that no team will duplicate Wittenberg's "Win 'Em All" feat of 1940, the tough Dayton, Xavier and Western Reserve outfits have an outside chance to cash in on a portion of the title.

* * *

That trio has lost one game each, Tennessee tripping Dayton, Xavier bowing to Kentucky, and Michigan Western State Teachers beating Reserve.

* * *

This week's games:

Friday night: Denison at Marietta, Carnegie Tech at Case, Bluffton at Findlay; Tennessee Tech at Youngstown.

Saturday: Ohio State at Pittsburgh, Muskingum at Ohio Northern, Wittenberg at Heidelberg, Mount Union at Wooster, Kenyon at Oberlin, Bowling Green at Kent State, Capital at Otterbein, John Carroll at Western Reserve, Davis and Elkins at Baldwin Wallace, Toledo at Illinois Wesleyan, Miami at Ohio U., Cincinnati at Dayton, Ohio Wesleyan at Akron, Wilberforce at Lincoln U., and Defiance at DeSales.

Buckeyes Battle With Backs To Wall

Battling with their backs to the wall, Ohio State gridmen stave off a Northwestern score as they halt Wildcat Benson's plunge from the one-foot line. Northwestern, however, struck twice through the air to defeat the Buckeyes 14-7 and topple them from the undefeated class. Nearly 72,000 fans watch the Columbus, Ohio, struggle.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service) — After surveying the week's football results, there seems to be a question of whether Army's Earl Blaik or Harvard's Dick Harlow should get the nomination for the coach of the year award for what they've done with teams that weren't drawing anything but laughs when the season started. . . . Local football fans, who were chilly to Jawn Kimbrough last week, gave him a swell wedding present yesterday by cheering their heads off for him while his fiancee, Barbara Golding, was in the stands. . . . The hospital where Abe Simon had his operation had to get a special bed big enough for him. . . . One local wag claimed it wasn't Abe's appendix the doctor removed but Lem Franklin's boxing glove.

BRASS RING DEPT.

Sports Editor Pat Moulton of the Mobile (Ala.) Press picked (1) Alabama to beat Georgia, (2) Jim Nelson to be the Tide's spearhead and (3) the score to be 27-14. Now if he'll only tell us how many hot dogs will be sold a the Army vs. Notre Dame game.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE.

When Pappy Joe DiMaggio heard the good news the other day, he wired tavern-keeper Toots Shor to lock up the cigars until he arrived to throw a party. . . . College golfers had better watch out for Georgetown's Jack Donohue, who won the college title for the third time last Friday although he's only a junior. He did it with a 66. . . . If you can believe all you hear, Earl Blaik was a touch annoyed last year when New England scribes started boosting Frank Leahy for the Dartmouth coaching job before Earl had quit. And he's not likely to forget it when he sends his Army boys against Frank's Notre Damers Saturday.

* * *

POSTMAN'S PARAGRAPH.

Hank Wolfe of the Richmond (Va.) News Leader reports that John Marshall high school of Richmond has run up 15 straight shutout victories since Coach Dick Esleeck took charge last season. . . . Don Davis of the Everett (Wash.) Herald sends the news that Everett high, which has lost only once in three years, has a swell halfback in Larry Hatch and wants to show him off against some good school about Thanksgiving time. . . . Maybe these two guys could get together.

* * *

LAST LAUGH.

When Morris McLemore, former Atlanta sports reporter now in the army, was assigned to Camp Wheeler, Ga., he was given a card to be mailed to his nearest relative. . . . Morris simply addressed it to "The Atlanta Journal Sports Department." . . . We have heard of guys who were married to their jobs but that's the first time it's ever been proved.

City News Club Scores In Every Period Of 25 To 7 Win

Mansfield City News pros scored in every period yesterday to defeat the St. Joe Athletic club of Fort Wayne, Ind., 25 to 7 at Madison high gridiron before a crowd large enough to permit the Mansfield club to break slightly better than even on the day's expenses.

* * *

This was an encouraging improvement in the size of the crowd as the pros had been going in the hole on their Saturday night games, but their small profit of yesterday was written off when Roland Poth, guard, suffered a knee fracture in the second period and was taken to General hospital.

* * *

The visitors showed a surprisingly touch defense, and kept the City News club bottled up through most of the opening quarter. Late in the period Mansfield started a drive, with Al Schwaner tearing off yardage in big chunks, and finally going over for the touchdown on a 20-yard jaunt around end. Al added the extra point with a placekick.

A sustained drive in the second period gave Mansfield another touchdown on a 10-yard pass from Joe Popovec to Miles.

The third quarter was only a minute old when Harper Au plunged over for the third touchdown, and in the final stanza Elmer Dials intercepted a Fort Wayne pass, reaching high in the air to grab the oval with one hand, and raced 25 yards for the final Mansfield marker.

* * *

It wasn't until the last three minutes of the ball game that Fort Wayne was able to score. A determined march from midfield brought the ball to the six-yard line where it was fourth and four to go, but Warman on a reverse swept around left end for a touchdown standing up. Warman also booted the extra point.

* * *

The Mansfield play showed a big improvement over that of two weeks ago when the pros needed a last half rally to defeat Toledo 12 to 2.

Next Sunday the City News club travels to Steubenville, and the following Sunday goes to Minerva to renew an old rivalry.

Packers Set For Bears

Pro Gridders Will Play Clincher Sunday.

By TOM SILER

CHICAGO — (AP) — The Green Bay Packers will learn next Sunday whether they've been on a wild goose chase since the National Football League season began.

The incomparable Don Hutson and his mates knocked over Detroit and Cleveland before bowing to the undefeated Chicago Bears in Green Bay five weeks ago. Since then the Bears and Packers have bowled over everything in sight, marking time until their second encounter.

* * *

This meeting comes Sunday in Wrigley Field. If the Bears win they will be virtually certain of representing the west in the championship playoff.

* * *

The eastern race was thrown into a scramble between Washington and New York yesterday when Brooklyn capped back from three straignt defeats to whip the Giants, 16 to 13. Ace Parker, league's most valuable player in 1940, sparked the Dodger attack which broke the Giants' winning string at five straight.

Washington, a half game behind the Giants, outlasted Cleveland to win 17 to 13. The Redskins have won four or five engagements, but their winning margin in no single contest has exceeded four points.

* * *

The Bears notched their fifth straight over a stubborn Pittsburgh eleven, 34 to 7. Green Bay also had an easy time, whipping Detroit, 24 to 7, with Hutson in another field day.

* * *

The Chicago Cardinals started too late to catch the Philadelphia Eagles, losing by 21-14.

Nautical Comedy.

Jack Haley and Jack Oakie take over the navy in Warner Brothers' streamline comedy, "Navy Blues," at the Ohio. The action skips off and on an American battleship in a Hawaiian port while the two nautical clowns try to pawn the ship's trophies and win the fleet's gunnery championship. Ann Sheridan furnishes the "oomph" and Martha Raye aids in the comedy, while lavish production numbers featuring music and dancing are generously sprinkled throughout the picture.

* * *

Sophisticated Theme.

Modern story of scrambled lovers, "When Ladies Meet," the Joan Crawford-Robert Taylor co-starring vehicle showing at the Madison, deals with a girl forced to choose between two men, one married. Robert Taylor plays the single charmer and Herbert Marshall the married publisher. Greer Garson is cast as Marshall's wife in whom Miss Crawford unwittingly confides her secret. The picture is based on Rachel Crothers' bright comedy. The screen's players of gangster roles turn funny-men in "Buy Me That Town," the second picture with Lloyd Nolan and Constance Moore.

* * *

Ozark Drama.

"The Shepherd of the Hills" continues at the Ritz with Harry Carey playing the title role in the technicolor production. John Wayne is in the cast. Priscilla Lane in "Million Dollar Baby" is the co-attraction.

* * *

Dancing Romance.

The dancing of such professionals as Anna Neagle, Ray Bolger and the Hartmans distinguishes the musical comedy, "Sunny," at the Park. Story of a young circus dancer who falls in love with a socialite during the New Orleans Mardi Gras, the picture features John Carroll in the romantic lead opposite Miss Neagle. Frieda Inescort and Helen Westley are others in the cast. The Bumstead family takes a crack at the social whirl in "Blondie In Society," the second picture, with Penny Singleton.

* * *

Comedy Melodrama.

What happens when a millionaire merchant makes a private first-hand investigation of his establishment is hilariously depicted in "The Devil and Miss Janes," starring Jean Arthur, at the Majestic. As one of the sales force Miss Arthur takes an interest in the old man, whom she believes to be down to his last cent, and gives the latter a pretty good picture of how his workers live. Charles Coburn plays the store owner and Robert Cummings, Spring Byington and William Demarest are others in the cast. "You'll Find Out," Kay Kyser's picture, with Ginny Simms, shares the bill.

----SHOCK WHICH CAUSED HIM TO LOSE HIS MEMORY ALSO TURNED HIS HAIR GRAY AND PROBABLY AFFECTED HIS EYES, MADE GLASSES NECESSARY -- Y'KNOW, HE SAID HE WASN'T WEARING GLASSES AT FIRST; PUT THEM ON IN THAT VILLAGE
SO I HAD A PHOTO MADE OF HIM WITHOUT HIS GLASSES AND GOT AN ARTIST TO PAINT HIS HAIR DARK, AS IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

STOCK LEADERS TAKE TWO-WAY TRAIL ON MART

Some Make Modest Advances, Others Slip During Early Trading.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—It was a two-day trail in today's stock market with an assortment of leaders tacking on modest advances while many others slipped behind fractional minus signs.

Among early resistant performers were Chrysler, American Telephone, International Nickel, Southern Pacific, and American Airlines.

Backward were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Western Union, Westinghouse, General Electric, Douglas Aircraft, Goodrich, General Motors and J. I. Case.

In addition to the darkening labor picture, market followers noted the survey of the magazine Steel which stressed the shortage of scrap as one of the major factors in stemming the rising tide of steel production.

The publication pointed out that lack of semi-finished steel was limiting production of wire and wire products, with the most apparent squeeze being in nails. Deliveries of the latter for civilian purposes, it was said, are now deferred several weeks.

CHAPTER VI

The banter ended as suddenly as it begun. Joy Boone — (and Ken Palmer too, for that matter) —observed it with interest. Joy told herself it must be another bit of western informality, which in truth it was. This whole place was a storybook setting, especially at night.

They telephoned into town in five minutes. Bettina Carlson herself came to the phone. Joy's voice broke then. Together the two women—one 19 and the other 40—sobbed out their love for one another, ended their nervous cry with thanks and promises.

"I shall eat first, then come in," Joy ended. "You eat and rest, Tootsy dear."

* * *

The three other young people were in the broad arched entry way waiting for her. Already food odors assailed them, and the maid Lupe was holding open a door and beaming her welcome. Joy looked at Ken Palmer.

"See here," she spoke, "my servant must be cared for, too, please. Put it all on my bill. He was most efficient in—"

"Hold on!" Ward McMurray was incredulous. "You mean—"

"There's no bill, Miss Boone!" Polly interrupted. "People don't have to pay for every little thing out here! And as for Mr. Palmer, do you mean—?"

"I do. I was most distressed until he showed up out there. And I hired him on the spot. For my chauffeur. I would have had to hire one somewhere."

Ward's mouth had dropped open. Polly stared.

"You—you—!" Ward gestured inanely.

"Palmer." Joy was quite serious. "Will two-hundred dollars a month be sufficient? To start? If not, say so. I may want a lot of errands run, and of course you will have full charge of both cars, mine and Bettina's and—"

"Hold on!" Ward McMurray had brightened. His face was a study now in elation. "If you're hiring a man—look, Miss Boone, out here in Arizona we do everything like that in writing! I'll just get a paper and pen. You can sign contracts to pay Palmer two hundred dollars a month, for the whole college year. He—yes ma'am, he's a right good man, I happen to know! Better sign him quick! We'll witness."

Polly caught on. She grabbed Ken's arm, shushed him when he would have had his say now. Ward himself wrote out the contract in duplicate, saw Joy Boone—still suspecting nothing—sign both copies in good faith. Ward was beginning to choke, restraining his laughter, but he made Ken sign too.

Joy looked up anew at handsome Ken Palmer, who had managed to keep a straight face.

"I'm going to like him," said she, and smiled benignly. "Palmer, the cook here will feed you, I am sure. But remember—from now on you are my man."

Polly McMurray felt a distinct little surge of unhappiness. Joy Boone was too much of a go-getter! Too confident and cock-sure. Too—beautiful.

Ken Palmer tonight might be a servant in Joy's eyes, but intuition told the dark-haired Arizona girl that he was entirely too strong and handsome to be long unrevealed. Already Joy Boone had looked up at him in frank admiration.

Kenyon Thomas Palmer, Ph. D., president of Frontier university, told himself that something had to be done.

"Miss Boone is nice and we owe her the best we can give," he told his elderly landlady that night. "But in addition, she is wealthy and nationally famed. If she should matriculate here then find us unsatisfactory and go away to some other school, the publicity would all but ruin Frontier! We must — take measures!"

His conference with Joy and Bettina Carlson that night of the storm had been eminently satisfactory. Joy did not look as spoiled as he feared. Just open, confident, fraught with energy. Dr. Palmer particularly liked the quietly cultured woman who was Joy's secretary, Bettina Carlson. This made him more determined than ever to win the distinguished pair. He suspected that Joy had agreed to come to Arizona only because she sensed a new thrill, but he sensed that Miss Carlson loved the girl and wanted her to level off in life, to get something that was substantial and good.

"Would a welcoming party help, Dr. Palmer?" the landlady suggested.

He didn't answer at once. But his shrewdly analytical mind had decided that Joy probably was a girl without any real friends of her own age, because a rich girl is likely to be so. Thus some honest hospitality should touch her heart.

On sudden impulse, therefore, Dr. Palmer went to the telephone and called her.

"Miss Boone," said he, after the greetings. "I am anxious for you and Miss Carlson to be my guests tomorrow evening at dinner. That's Saturday, you know. Informal. A desert chuck wagon dinner, cowboy style. If—"

"Dr. Palmer! I'd love it!" Joy's enthusiasm flowed to him.

"Excellent! Ask Miss Carlson, please. I shall take you out myself. We'll have a few more friends, for a quiet western evening."

* * *

Unfortunately, though, Dr. Palmer himself was new in the community. He had been guest once at a chuck wagon dinner and it had impressed him. Now, though, he had to seek help from the same trustees who had been his hosts. He phoned two but they were out. Next he called a trustee named Buck McMurray at Paradise Cattle Ranch, R. F. D. No. 2. He had liked the big, broad-shouldered, broad-hatted man of the range. It was almost 10 p. m. but McMurray came to the phone. Dr. Palmer told of his plan.

"NO!" Buck McMurray roared, genially. "No sir, Mr. President. I met Miss Boone myself. Cute little trick as my Polly, almost! Plenty of sass. But I see yore point. Now what you want is to make her feel welcome. All right, but let me do it, not you. Why hell 'n' high water, Palmer, you're a stranger here yoreself! I'm a trustee. Only college I ever trusteed. I aim to do the welcoming for both of you. Tomorrow night, you said? All right. Bring everybody!"

"But—"

"Don't but me, Palmer! Bring all your girls. All of 'em! You got about 600 head, ain't you? Bring 'em. The whole confounded college and the perfessers as well, yep. I'll throw a feed. This gives me all day Saturday to arrange it easy. We'll have us a time!"

Dr. Palmer was astonished, but elated. He was to learn that ranch folk move in just such ways. Six hundred, nearly 700 mouths to feed? What of it? Buck McMurray had only to drive up a few of his own steers, he explained. His Mexican helpers and their families would call it fun to cook that much barbecue! a barrel of pickles, a truck load of buns, sacks of onions, coffee in big drums, some of Lupe's sweet candies—nothing of it, big Buck roared at the college man. Cost him less'n a hundred dollars actual cash, and he could do that much for his daughter's college if he wanted to, couldn't he? Dr. Palmer was quite overwhelmed.

He caused the invitations to be announced at the Saturday morning breakfast in the dining halls of the college, and he telephoned all the faculty as well. It was short notice, but all the guests had to do was "dress up and come," Mr. McMurray had said. "Dress up," it was understood, meant western outdoorsy clothes, not formals.

* * *

Practically all of the girls were already at school for registration and they welcomed the invitation with long cheering. Especially when they learned later that Mr. McMurray had invited a lot of cowboys and other ranch folk. As for Joy Boone, she was beaming. Everybody knew the big party was in her honor and so everybody was doubly anxious to meet or at least see the much-talked-of new girl, but she was used to such notoriety. She talked to everyone she met as graciously as she could. When she had registered for her junior courses, though, she met her new chauffeur "Palmer" by appointment, and with Miss Carlson was driven the 10 miles to Phoenix. There both she and Bettina purchased the swankiest western outfits money could buy.

Transportation to the ranch was in buses and private cars arranged for the purpose. Joy had a sleek new sedan — purchased just like that, by telephone! Palmer drove her and Bettina out to Paradise.

The ranch home was even more beautiful by day than it had been in the evening. Rustic, crude in a measure, but picturesque. The orphan calf on the porch had to be fed by a bottle and Joy did the feeding. The puppies were duly admired again. Off 200 yards or so barbecue was cooking over long pits of glowing coals, and tarpaulins had been spread on the ground for "tables." Men and women in spurs and blue denims and colored shirts and huge Stetsons were everywhere, folk who talked shyly until friendships had a chance to warm. Polly took Joy Boone around. Every cowboy who met her was impressed. Most of them asked if they might dance with her in the festivity after dinner.
